. . Hello! I am the owner of Volcano Tool V2.3.5, a tool created especially to remove and remove advertising in apps. I have no reason to post this app in the Google Play Store, because the app has no flaws or bugs. The only flaw is this: Once you download the app, it downloads apps from Play Store to your device. After that, you are able to install these apps by downloading and installing them in the background. Since I do not have any apps in Play Store, the tool downloads them and installs them all at once. This is a flaw that needs to be fixed. . . . Volcano Tool V2 is an app that allows you to remove apps and shortcuts that appear without permission in an Android device. You can also remove ads in apps that you do not like, such as Candy Crush, and many others. For those who are interested, here are the details of Volcano Tool: When you download the app, it creates a hidden folder (Volcano folder) in your home directory (C:\Users\[USER NAME]). The tool installs apps in this folder from Play Store to your device. But it is not a problem because when you remove them from your device, they will be deleted from the Volcano folder on your PC. You should NOT uninstall Volcano Tool V2 in an Android device. If you uninstall Volcano Tool, you will have to uninstall apps that you have installed by the tool (apps that appear without permission in your Android device). Even if you erase the app from your phone, the apps that you have installed by Volcano Tool will remain. You can use "Cleaning" to remove them all. Volcano Tool V2 is a combination of a tool and an app, so it runs with an Android Device, and does not need to be installed by the user. Volcano Tool 2.3.5 contains several tools that are used to remove advertising, such as: ". . ." (You can remove any Ads on your phone by clicking on the 3 dots icon and selecting "Settings" -> "Ads"). If you have done that and you still see the ads, it means that the app is installed in your phone. If you want to remove apps, you can use "App Manager". ". . ." . . .If you want to remove all apps, or even any apps that you do not use, 82157476af
